

ICE London continues learning discount window with VOX Monday

Following the final deadline for ICE VOX 2019's Early Booking Discount on Friday 7 December, delegates have been gifted with an additional not-to-be-missed opportunity as the discount window remains open for an additional 24 hours until 5pm GMT on Monday 10 December. The VOX Monday Early Booking Discount offers delegates savings of up to £800 on the re-formatted conference series, which features over 120 high profile, tier-one thought leaders delivering over 40 hours of business-centric learning.

Featuring five separate learning experience hubs and a broad spectrum of speakers drawn from both within and outside the gaming space, the 2019 edition of ICE VOX is set to do things differently, while still delivering the most comprehensive learning programme in gaming curated to provide delegates with the unique insight to shape and enhance their businesses.

The ICE VOX conference programme, which runs alongside what will be the biggest ever edition of ICE London, will comprise five branded areas offering distinct ways of learning; Elevator, the direct, information-based stream; The Hive, where delegates will be able to meet with regulators, operators and policy makers in a series of roundtable networking sessions; Counsel; a series of Oxford Union style debates and motions all facilitated by a professional debate team; Boardroom; dedicated streams featuring inspirational thought leaders from outside the gaming universe, and the Speaker Clinic, which delivers one-to-one feedback Masterclasses for delegates to make presentations to professional speakers and receive an exclusive critique and guidance.
