

Sealaska invests in second California casino

Juneau, Alaska – Southeast Alaska's regional Native corporation is continuing to push its investment in a second California casino. That's despite growing opposition from local residents, including the town's city council.

Sealaska is working with a Pomo Indian group to develop the gambling resort about 90 miles north of San Francisco.