

Clever Duck Media announces Women in Gaming Networking Event

Clever Duck Media announced that it will hold Women in Gaming Conference (WIG) on 24 September 2010 at the Millennium Hotel in London. The one-day conference includes marketing and social media discussions and issues relevant to the gaming industry.

The WiG event will give an opportunity to network with other female professionals in the industry, listen to and share successful stories, business expertise and ideas.

The conference will feature keynote speeches, followed by an intensive series of discussions, and real life examples from industry role models.

Speakers at the conference will hear from companies such as Nokia, Income Access, Virgin Games, Foviance, Vegas Affiliates, MelcoCrown Entertainment, Tenner & Associates inc, etc

The conference's international credentials are underlined still further by a fascinating line-up of presentations by speakers from USA, Europe and Asia. The Conference will highlight a wide range of issues relevant to the gaming industry of today and tomorrow – full details are available in the conference programme.

Women in Gaming Awards

In addition, the exceptional women working in Land based and iGaming industry, role models will be awarded during a special evening Gala Dinner & Awards ceremony.

The inaugural International Woman in Gaming Awards has been created to highlight the exceptional women working in Land based and iGaming industry, role models that show it is an industry that offers exciting career opportunities for women on both a National and Global basis.

The Women in Gaming Awards is a great opportunity for employers to recognize female team leaders within their organization and their contribution to the success of the business. Full details are available on <http://www.gaming-awards.com/wig.html>.