

SJBET now offers betting on smartphones

Just in time for the start of the European Championship, the international sports betting company SJBET now uses Bookmaker5 Smartweb to offer its customers a way to place sports and live bets on their smartphone (iPhone, Android). With that, customers can fully focus on the events of the EC, while still being able to place bets easily and comfortable – anywhere and anytime.

The massive distribution of smartphones is an excellent opportunity, to enthuse the betting customer with even more comfort and quality. SJBET can secure itself a position in this continually growing market segment.

Thomas Zweimüller, CEO of SJBET, is convinced of the mobile betting market's potential:

“Betting on the smartphone is an excellent addition to our range of shop-, terminal- and internet products. And with our technical solution partner Arland, we have the necessary technology available, to continue to offer our customers a great betting experience.”
